albatross DIII

The Albatross D III was the third version of Germany's mass-produced WWI fighter, all versions of which had a good reputation. The D III was first used in January, 1917. For 18 months, the Albatross Corps were the elite of Germany's air attack groups.

Instructions:

- Cement all parts together with a good model kit cement (Revell or Testor's)
- Remove all parts with care and remove surplus plastic with a nail file or emery board.
- If you wish to paint your model, use the pack as a color guide and use enamel (not lacquer). For best results, paint first and touch up on completion.
- Start with (1) and cement all parts in sequence until the model is complete.
- Apply decals after final painting. Soak in warm water for a few seconds and then slide into the locations shown.
