The Sukhoi Su-25 (NATO reporting name: FROGFOOT) was designed as a Soviet counterpart to the U.S. Air Force's A-10. The single seat Su-25 is a front line, ground attack combat aircraft. This aircraft has been teamed up with the Mi-24 Hind helicopter gunships against rebel targets in mountainous regions of Afghanistan.

The armament and operational equipment aboard the Frogfoot consist of a large-caliber gun, SRO-2 (Odd Rods) IFF, a Sirena 3 radar warning system, a nose-mounted laser rangefinder and marked target seeker, and a flare dispenser in the tailcone. The broad wings are fitted with ten weapons pylons for an estimated payload of more than 9,900 lbs. of stores in various configurations.

The Su-25 is believed to be powered by the non-afterburning version of the Tumansky turbojet that was used to propel the late-model MIG-21s.
